Dear Mrs de Saizy

Your letter reached me after considerable delay, but I cannot tell you how pleased we all were to hear from you again. We are so glad to see by your letter that Mr de Saizy is well again. I hope you will all soon be reunited once more. — Of course I shall do what I can to help your husband & I have heard from Sir Charles Russell. He had written to me before you did & I am now in regular correspondence with him & trust all will soon be all right. — Has Mr de Saizy been able to do any work of late? — I wonder how the five dear boys are getting on. Henry must be a man by now & I suppose Paul goes to school & Patrick also. — I hope your brother in law & nephews have returned safely from the war. What a blessing it is over at last! — But I am afraid we shall not be able to meet for some time yet. — We are all well. Daisy has been very busy for the British Prisoners of war. She has organised their library at the G. M. C. A. — But all that is finished now as the men have gone home. She has a relief-stable for sick & underfed horses, & that keeps her occupied also. —

If you see your husband please tell him with our love that we always remain true friends & hope to hear soon that he is well & happy again. —

Believe me, dear Mrs de Laribo, with much love for yourself —

Affect^{ly} yours

Adrienne de Rieux
