My dear Langlo

I am exceedingly sorry not to be at your house tonight, as I had hoped to see the Ome de friture again. But my doctor positively won't let me go to any evening party. As I leave on Monday for Evian, it is perhaps well to run no risks.

I hope however to see you & Mrs Langlo after you return to London in September. I greatly enjoyed my talk with you both the day you were here.

Believe me

Yours very truly

Whitcomb
