Dear Friend

I found yesterday crossing Paris your letter from Kissingen, and I hunched with Honey at Bilouze's.

The studio will be ready for you on the 18th, but I am afraid it won't be very nice for you to stay in as Henri Machin: there was a good deal of architect work to do this summer, and not yet finished.

The few servants that we are sending there now will have just time to clean the house and put in order for the end of the month, when we come back.

I see you will have interesting work: I know the Queen of Greece, very attractive.

I don't know if I shall be able to go to Paris on the 18 but we shall be happy to see you here the 14th and have a game of golf after lunch. You can dine - and you can be back easily in the evening.

We have planned collaboration with Henry. I expect him to come and work at the laboratory in February next.

Glad to see you again, I am ever yours

frankly
