Dear Mrs Dazlo

I return the statement which I have read. It is of no use for me to express any opinion on it, but it appears to me convincing.

I hope that when the advising committee come to reconsider your husband's case they may advise the Home Secretary in favour of his release. In the meanwhile I think the way to look at the whole matter is that the Home Secretary considers that in view of your husband's correspondence with friends in Hungary, he is bound to treat him as though he were still a Hungarian and in that case no doubt he would be informed.

Yours sincerely
James W. Fowler.
