My dear de Karglo,

Many thanks for your letter, in which we are both so sorry to read of your anxiety with regard to your son's illness, & sincerely hope that by now he is regaining his strength.

I was glad to receive the general, charming letter which must have crossed one I wrote him, a copy of which I will show you when we meet.

We propose coming to town for 2 or 3 days on Wednesday next the 29th & shall look forward to lunching with you either on the 30th or following day & arrange then about removing the picture in the case; I will telephone early Thursday morning to see which day suits you best.

Glad to hear you have been doing some interesting work in Paris.

My wife joins in kindest regards to you both.

Yours very sincerely,

Edward Tilly.
