Dear Mr. de Lazlo,

It gave me the greatest pleasure to make your acquaintance the other afternoon, and I have high hopes that we shall be able to produce a book for you. In the meantime, I wonder if you would honour me by writing a short chapter for a book we are publishing, entitled "WORLD PROBLEMS OF TO-MORROW". We are covering all kinds of subjects and if you would write 3,000 words for us, dealing with what you consider will happen to art and painting during the next 100 years, and whether you think that the various Schools of Thought will have greatly altered by, say, the year 2030, I should indeed be grateful.

There will, of course, be a fee for copyright, payable on publication, and complimentary copies of the book.

Yours very sincerely,
ALBERT E. MARRIOTT LIMITED.
