Dear Mr De Laszlo,

I am so disappointed at missing you this morning.

It is a marvel I did not meet you, as when I got back from the City my Secretary, Mr. Sharp, told me you had only been gone about a minute. I suspect you turned up Suffolk Place into the Haymarket just as I turned into the Street from Pall Mall East. Probably if I had been coming from the West instead of from the East I should have run into you.

My Secretary tells me you admired Mr. Amstewitz's still life.

I am very glad of this, as it has attracted me very much indeed, and there is nothing so pleasing & so flattering to a layman as to have his opinion confirmed by a distinguished artist, whose judgment is beyond question ^{for him}.

I hope sincerely I shall sell it, as I consider Mr. Amshewitz one of the ablest painters in the Society, and deserves success

Yours sincerely
Percy Edsall
