At a luncheon in the board room of the Port of London Authority yesterday Lord Ritchie of Dundee, chairman of the Authority, on behalf of present and past members of the Authority, presented Lord Devonport, who was chairman of the Authority from its inception to March 31 last, with a piece of silver in recognition of the services rendered by him to the Port of London during the 16 years of his chairmanship. A portrait of Lord Devonport by Mr. de Laszlo has been hung in the board room, and this was unveiled at the same time by Lord Ritchie.
