CHURCH ASSEMBLY. 912

MICROPHONES and loud speakers leavened the formality of the autumn session of the Church Assembly yesterday afternoon in Church House, Westminster.

The Archbishop of York deputised for the Archbishop of Canterbury, who is not well, but whose portrait by Philip de Laszlo gave silent benison to the gathering of bishops, deans, and lesser ecclesiastics and laymen.

COMPLAINT. * * *

THE Bishop of Worcester made the meeting smile by a complaint that the commission on religious education is almost entirely composed of Oxford men.

He could not understand why Cambridge had been so shabbily treated.

It goes without saying that my Lord Bishop of Worcester is a graduate and a doctor of divinity at Cambridge.
