Dear Mr Laszlo

I am afraid I made a bit of a muddle over the Honorarium, thank you very much for the refunded cheque which your secretary has kindly sent me.

The more we see of the pictures the more delighted we are with them, they both look so much better in their new position at the end of the room, everybody who comes admires much more pleasure.

Your architect friends to Reynolds Bloomfield etc are giving us a lot of trouble, Bloomfield said the the bridge must not be altered in any way whatever in fact he would rather have no bridge at all than an altered one. but he has now quite changed his mind and has himself sent in a plan for altering it according to his own idea, what can one do with people who chop and change so much they don't even seem to know what they want themselves.

them very much. The slight alteration you made to my eyes portrait has made it much more like her normal self; when she first had the sitting she had been in bed for a week with influenza and naturally looked a bit tired and run down and the impression the picture gives now is that what she is generally like and gives me

You spoke about the painting of my wife's picture, we shall be going away on Thursday till about 20th January will it be all right to leave it till then?

My wife sends her best wishes with mine to you and Mrs Lough for Xmas.

Yours sincerely

Falmouth.
