Dear Mr. de Laszlo

Thank you so much for your letter which I received yesterday & rather to write to you as I know you must be in a hurry to make all the necessary arrangements for the transport of the pictures. I suppose exhibitions are necessary things but I am sure all the people who possess the pictures to be exposed must feel the same reluctance at is called Gondrand, but parting with them as I do perhaps you already know even if it is for three out of one.

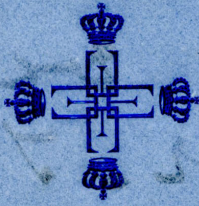

As your pictures are the only ones that adorn my walls you can imagine how empty & lifeless they will look without them. If something happens to them I warn you that your life will be in constant danger!!!

Yoking apart of course I will send them with the greatest pleasure & I would like to say that I have been told that the best man for packing & transport is

I must say it is with very mixed feelings that I shall see my Father's lovely picture exposed in London, because it is difficult to forget what he was made to suffer & with what injustice & constant persecution his heart was finally broken.

It is really the irony of fate to think that now it is this picture which must be used for charity when formerly he was only good enough to spit

Please forgive me for writing like this but anything that touches my Father upsets me very much.
Perhaps you will understand as you knew him you have caught his beautiful expression in that marvellous picture which I love more than anything in my possession.
Any body looking at it must realise that the noble beauty of that face can only be the outcome of everything most honest, true & straight & that the dastardly acts he was accused of were the infamous invention.

of unscrupulous politicians for their own ends + gain.
I was very glad to hear this morning that Monseigneur Ray de Laya is quite well + is coming to see us one of these days.

I hope you will let the man know who is going to pack the picture if he must remove the glass on the three small ones or not. My sister's, brother's, + mine.

Thank you also very

which I found here on my return from a very lengthy motor tour. I do hope if you come in February that you + Mr. de Taylor will come + stay with me, it would be a great pleasure.

Hoping to see you in London.

Yrs very sincerely

Greer
