Dearest Stef, I hope you are warding off the 'flu' ?
Thank God, we have arrived home safely - we had a beautiful trip - via Flushing & Fotherstone - a nice clean cabin to ourselves - I was wondering, if you + ed on the same boat when your poor dears were 'so ill' !
Con said how badly you both looked --- Well, the affairs of London begin to take hold, I'm sitting in Daddy's study, heavily cloaked with all his papers! About three leaves for Australia tomorrow, & can stay on with us - Daddy got your account, & is v. pleased with the manner you have given an account of everything. From what Paul says, there was not enough money to go round so he paid away his school tips. I therefore now enclose a cheque for £1 for him.

Stay what about the money for the tickets? Have any of your friends come forward to pay? Ask them without delay for the amount, & send me a p.o. They ought to leave the good breeding not to let you wait for this debt which is a matter of honour. I wish you luck at your Certificate A. "Knowledge is Power", but I hope you'll have no opportunity here to fight! Tell Paul to secure a room for us on 4th March - Hugs to your mother - it's nice to think we are all for this in dear England & me more in your office as workers.
